From Mediterranean heart, a masterpiece of simplicity

Best for Foodservice

The story of Antonio Amato begins in Salerno, from the passion for good food and love of tradition. It is a story that smells of wheat and sea, but also of research and innovation which starts from the cradle of the Mediterranean gastronomic tradition. Located between the two splendid Cilento and Amalfi Coasts, the city benefits from a microclimate that is excellent for the production of pasta and other ingredients thanks to the salty sea air and rich vegetation of the nearby mountains. We have made of our products a masterpiece of simplicity, in an embrace between genuine ingredients and Mediterranean fragrances, for an explosion of all-Italian taste. Antonio Amato uses a mixture of Italian & North American durum wheat but it only utilizes Non-GMO wheat.

Pasta Di Martino

Only the best 100% Italian Durum wheat for our Di Martino PGI Gragnano Pasta

Three Generations of Pasta Makers

Since 1912 Three generations of Di Martino family members have worked diligently to bring the best traditional Italian Dried Pasta to the world. Pasta has been made in Gragnano, Italy for over 500 years and is the only area that can offer a Protected Geographic Indication seal in Europe. This pasta uses only 100% Durum Wheat grown and milled in Italy combined with spring water from the Lattari Mountains to craft this exquisite pasta. Using bronze dies gives a rough edge to each cut so they hold more sauce. The 14% protein composition coupled with their slow drying temperature allows the gluten to retain its elasticity, so it cooks to a perfect al dente every time.

THE ENCOUNTER BETWEEN PURITY AND INTENSITY, BETWEEN EMOTION AND INSPIRATION.

Like mixology, syrup is an art. The art of creating, inspiring and sharing unique and intensely ephemeral flavors. And like any respectful art, we want it to benefit from our highest standards and savoir-faire.

From the selection of the finest ingredients, to the search for their accurate representation, including their power and undisputed intensity, nothing is left to chance to offer a syrup of consistent quality and perfect balance. Each syrup, each product in the 1883 range is produced according to our unique requirements. Lovingly crafted in the French Alps since 1883.

THE MANOLI CANOLI STANDARD

For generations my family and our closest relatives have produced the purest extra virgin olive oil from 25,000+ olive trees in the beautiful country of Greece. The olives Koronéiki and Athenoelia, which are the most prized Greek olive varieties for oil production, are hand-picked, cold pressed the same day and never blended with other oils. This type of olives produce a very small fruit with high ratio of skin to flesh giving the oil its coveted aromatic qualities. Most of our production consists of agourélaio, oil from olives that are slightly unripe. The oil is pure, solely produced on family soil and no where else in the world can you get an olive or olive oil of such rare taste and as succulent. The aroma hints of fruit, pepper and grass. It is very low of acidity and possesses top-tier characteristics. Even chemical analysis has proven that our extra virgin oil has low acidity and is high in antioxidants.

We process the olives quickly at a moderate temperature to protect the aromas and reduce oxidation.

The depth of transport containers is limited to reduce pressure on the fruit impeccable machinery, floors, and walls to prevent odors that may contaminate the oil.

Any pest that directly attacks the fruit is controlled to prevent fruit decay.

Third generation of an olive oil expert. We know just what it takes to produce, harvest, and process olives of high quality. We are familiar with the sensory evaluation of olive oil and we are able to recognize the major defects that can appear in olive oil.

Italy's 1# Brand of Tomatoes has achieved this distinction through an unending passion and dedication to quality and flavor. They won their first award, the Medaglia d'Oro 1 Grado (First Class Gold Medal) at the 1911 exhibition and then the Gran Croce award, the highest order of merit in Italy.

The tomatoes are packed in puree and quickly cook down to make a sauce. Mutti uses 6 KG's of tomatoes to make 1 KG of their Double Concentrate tomato paste which features a 28° Brix level and a very intense flavor. Mutti Tomatoes do not contain any additives, preservatives, Calcium Chloride, Basil and they do not add citric acid, salt or sugar.

Filippo Gambassi

For over 120 years, the Gambassis have continued their family tradition of producing homemade cured products based on the oldest recipes handed down from father to son. Our main goal is to bring to your table the ancient flavor of the past, preserved over time thanks to the homemade work of our salumieri. Genuine control and absolute respect are essential to produce our traditional products. A very strict quality control makes the perfect relationship between the flavors of the past and the knowledge of today.

Since he was a child, Filippo Gambassi, the fifth generation of the Gambassi family, learned from his father Giulio the secrets of this art and still now he works to keep this knowledge intact with full respect and dedication in order to preserve the artisan tradition of Terra di Siena using the same method of producing cured meats both in Italy and in the States.

Filippo's American Dream: Americans frequently come into our Italian shops and ask, "How can we get your products in the United States?" My answer is not to export our products, but to produce our Italian-cured meats in the US with the true perfume and taste of this family traditional story. That's how the dream began and how the Terra di Siena USA Project started.
